

Wild At Heart

I think it was Agatha Christie that once said “Good advice is always certain to be ignored, but that's no reason not to give it.” So here goes...

There's never any shortage of people who will tell you what you want to hear. Lets face it, which of us doesn't feel pretty chuffed when we're told how good we're going.

On the converse side, none of us like copping a flogging, be it from our significant other, our business partner, or even from dear old Mum. It often leaves us reeling and feeling less than buoyant.

Here's the thing tho, when we think back on our lives, which advice has served us better?

Well if you're like most of us, it's the advice we haven't liked that taught us the lessons we've needed to learn!!

We often get told it doesn't matter what other people think & say – just ignore it. Frankly that way of thinking is a good way to go thru life and come out the other end no smarter than when we started!!

I'd like to refine that – don't ignore other people's advice. Listen to it, evaluate it. Think about what's influenced them to say what they say, then learn from another's perspective.

But first – know your own mind, and what's making you think the way you do.

A new year is always a great time to reflect, and to plan ahead. It's a milestone, a new beginning, and a chance to make a difference in your business, and in your life.

Today is your chance to launch into 2015 with a new mindset – to create the fresh beginning you've dreamed of...to be wild at heart.

The past is not the present & as long as you're still breathing (which I assume you are as you read this article), its never too late to make changes. Life for us as business owners is not a straight line. There isn't one right path for you, me or anyone else. You're even allowed to backtrack.

You're allowed to figure out what inspires you at different stages of your life. Give yourself permission to take extra time figuring things out when you need it. Running a business is meant to be a series of zigs and zags.

So whatever situation you are in right now, just know that it can change if you want it to – and the best bit is that it's up to you. You just have to choose to do something new, something different to what you did yesterday, or last year.

Stepping out in business may be wild and dangerous, but staying still is guaranteed to be silently deadly.

The stakes are high, but the truth is nothing in this world is a safe bet. When you hide from your ambitions and your passions, you automatically hide from everything you ever wanted in life. You may as well curl up & die.

Welcome to 2015. It's here – ready or not.
